PORTLAND, OR—New Portland office provides collaborative spaces and removes corner offices to enhance creativity and deliver outstanding client service through innovative design

Ball Janik LLP, a bi-coastal comprehensive services law firm focused on real estate, land use, construction, and business litigation, is proud to announce that the company's Portland, Oregon headquarters is moving to a newly redesigned office space. The new location sits on the 18th floor in the same building it has occupied since 1982 and embodies an open-concept environment to foster an inclusive, collaborative, and flexible office. Ball Janik teamed with LRS Architects to establish a redesign focused on a mid-century modern style combined with natural aesthetics.

Key features of the redesign include the removal of corner offices, glassed-in conference rooms, a bright, earthy color palette, and panoramic windows. Every aspect of the redesign seamlessly connects, exemplifying Ball Janik's drive to encourage engagement and creativity.
